

Masterclass with Jim Cronin

At Clare Garden Festival 2020

Biodiversity in the garden for pollination and pest control

Clare Garden Festival 2020,

Sunday, 26th April 2020

11am – 12pm

Ennis Showgrounds

Classroom at side of building

€20pp including festival entry

Description:

In this Masterclass, Jim will be looking in detail at using Biodiversity as a way to organically control pests and allow for increased pollination. Jim will be drawing on his extensive knowledge of Organic Gardening and teaching of courses to deliver this 1-hour course to a limited audience of interested persons. The class will be held on the grounds of the festival (Ennis Showgrounds) at our classroom at the side of the building. Jim will also be giving a talk from the main stage at 4pm on a different topic. On the festival day, please enter through main gate collecting your ticket from the box and proceed as instructed to other side of building. This class will start at 11am sharp, thank you.

Payment options:

We have removed the pre-pay options as it was only used by a very limited number of persons. We do recommend to pre-book to reserve your space however. All pre-booked spaces using our application form will be held for you until 10.45am, at 10.50am pre-booked spaces will be released should anyone else want to join the class.

In 2018 and 2019 this class was oversubscribed, so we recommend to come early and fill in application forms beforehand sending them to info@claregardenfestival.com

